DIGITAL LEARNING PLATFORM – NEW COURSES FOR STANDARDS DEVELOPERS

RSB is pleased to announce the launch of the ISO Digital Learning Platform, developed to deliver remote-training opportunities on standardization activities. The platform features a selection of courses on ISO-customized content (including the mandatory project management course) and general business skills. New courses will be added regularly throughout the year.

This knowledge hub offers exciting opportunities for our members' staff and stakeholders, including ISO and RSB committee experts, to benefit from a range of courses on standardization. The material provided will help learners to deliver high-quality standards in an efficient and effective manner, proactively solve problems, motivate culturally diverse teams, think outside the box, engage in meaningful collaborations, and ultimately develop their leadership skills.

If you have already an account on the ISO Global Directory, you could access directly the digital learning platform using that account after accepting the related terms and conditions. Otherwise, you need to contact RSB to create you an account before completing the registration process.

For any further clarification on the ISO platform please contact: Mrs. KAMANZI Liliane, Ag. Director of Standards Publication, Training and Technical Assistance Unit on liliane.kamanzi@rsb.gov.rw and +250788359956.

Thanking you for your usual collaboration.

Yours sincerely,

MURENZI Raymond
Director General
